1.1 Acre boundary:

We used the current entrance path as the partial boundary of the 1.1 acre construction area for our tree mapping and photojournal, pursuant to this diagram and information provided by the project engineers: "A temporary access road is proposed in the vicinity of the existing path at the east side of the dam. The walking path will be restored at the conclusion of the project." -- Larson Design Group in an August 9, 2011 Q&A

This is the Wetland Impact Plan by Sharon Krock of Schnabel Engineering, dated May 19, 2011. Our copy is complete with park mud! The green highlight covers the dashed line labeled "limits of disturbance," which we used as the boundary of the 1.1 acre disturbance area. The "existing path" is handwritten and the "temporary access road" is marked, both within that green line.
